

Hello Glen Paddies

I received this email this evening from John Coleman....thought I would share it with you.....

Dear Father,

Thanks for Let Us Dream by Pope Francis.

I found it inspiring and have written a review although I'm not sure where to place it; maybe Eureka Street.

The intro gives a better idea of my reaction:

[I read many books over the Christmas-New Year break: how former editor Lionel Barber turned the ailing Financial Times from 400,000 circulation to one million by going digital; I persevered with Peter Fitzsimons' folksy style for clear evidence that Breaker Morant was indeed a cold-blooded murderer; and, of course, Andrew and Lee Child's Jack Reacher eliminating even more bad guys in the top-selling The Sentinel.

But I found the best page-turner of all the slim volume Let Us Dream, Pope Francis' Path to a Better Future, in the wake of Covid-19. It's wide ranging, revolutionary, inspiring, full of wisdom, warmth and, characteristically, a touch of humour.]

If you don't mind, I would like to keep the book for a few more days to double check the Pope's quotes.

Thanks again,

John
